

It was a good day at work. It was a steady but praise the Lord not in an overloaded way. I headed out of work a little early and went to West End and watched "The End of The Spear" with some of you. I thought it was a good move, but do agree that it could have been longer and let us get to know the missionaries better. Afterwards 8 of us headed across the street to get supper at the Chinese place and had lots of fun 🍻.
