

It was a good day at work. I was so happy that the school receptionist was back safe and sound. It was good to hear about her time with the family in the difficult time. I'm glad the Lord provided a way for her to get there for them. It was a challenge to do her job and mine for 2 1/2 weeks. It grew me a great deal and challenged me to yield to the Lord even more.

I was happy to get back in my office. I did attendance, worked on some grade related reports and other odds and ends. This afternoon we had CPR training. We were also trained on AED's since the school is getting one this year. I got home and relaxed this evening.
