

It was a busy Monday. I worked on some reports for the state and some other data crunching. I had a really good conversation with one of the believers who works at the school. It is so encouraging to have other believers around and be encouraged by them during the day. This evening I watched last night's Extreme Makeover Home Edition. That show makes me so thankful to the Lord for my health, steady job, and great group of friends and family. I'm so blessed.

Share this:

- Share