

I slept in until around 7 this morning. I got up and had breakfast and a good quiet time. At 8, I went downstairs and put in 3 loads of laundry. I did some odds and ends after laundry was put up and grabbed a shower. I watched a movie this afternoon. Dad & Mom got her a little after 4 today. We headed over to Alamance crossing for supper. We had supper at Red Robin. Then we went and check out several shops. We had tea and coffee in Barns & Noble. Then we headed back. I checked my cell phone voice mail and had 2 messages. One was from Marg. She sang me a happy birthday (early) song. It was a nice evening with Mom & Dad. I'm glad they could come down. My birthday gift from them was some food from their church's fall bazaar and a dust ruffle for my bed. I needed it to cover up my box spring. Plus I got some cool Lock-n-Lock containers from my Grandmother. She is doing well. She is out of the hospital and in a rehab/assisted living location. They love her there.

It was also very cool when we were in B&N there was a group of African-American guys sitting across from us. They were Christians and were encouraging each other with scripture. It is good to see men encouraging and sharpening each other in the Word.

Share this:

- Share