

It was a good day at work. I did attendance work. Our system is going down for upgrades over the next week. So I saved electronic copies of data for used over that time. This evening I helped cater New Directions International's first Thanksgiving banquet. We serve it family style this year and it went very well. I'm beat so I'm going to hit the sack early and get some extra sleep. I will not be able to sleep too late because of the Burlington Christmas Parade.

Share this:

- Share