It was a busy day at work. I printed out progress reports and got them in teachers' boxes. I did a little discipline entry but have more to do tomorrow. We had our Media & Technology Advisory Committee meeting this afternoon. It went well. I also did some Christmas shopping from the art teachers at work. They have a sale each year and a portion of the profits go to help needy families at our school. I ran by Big Lots and picked up some cereal and then headed home. I relaxed and watched "Little People, Big World" this evening.

Share this:

• Share