

Well it was a busy but good Monday at school. I enjoyed it because I was able to help several teachers out with some issues and talk to different people. The computer system was slow and that was frustrating but it was just another opportunity to learn patience. After work, I headed over to Target and picked up a few things. Then I headed over to Family Christian. Cameron & Rachel had given me a gift certificate for running sound for their wedding. I picked up Paul Baloche's new CD. I love his stuff! I came come and cleaned my tub with the stuff I bought at Target. But I used too much and the fumes were too much. I opened windows turned on fans and the AC. Well, I still needed to get out to let it clear. So I called the Warren's to see if I could come over. I had a good time talking with Brenda over hot tea. Then I hung out with Chris and watched some TV. Sara was busy with school work. Nick is back at Liberty and Eldon was on his way back. It was good to spend some time with them and relax. I miss getting to see them regularly. When I got back, the fans (etc) had helped. Now I'm going to grab a shower and head to bed.
