

I woke up feeling good and singing a praise song. I ate my breakfast and had my quiet time. I headed into work for my last normal day of the week. I have a meeting tomorrow and I'm helping with job interviews Thursday & Friday. It was a good day. We did have some discipline drama today, but not too crazy. I helped run some network cable in a classroom. I worked with a teacher or two. This afternoon I did a overview/training session with our Clerical/Nurse Assistant/I.S.S. Assistant. She drives a bus and does all that with us. She is also a believer. She makes our office run smoothly. But she got a full time job at Chapel Hill High as a secretary for one of the assistant principals. So I gave her an overview of our system that she will be using. I looked at the new Apple MacBook Air (super thin notebook) and the Time Capsule (wireless roulter and 1TB hard drive). I really like Time Capsule. I may start saving for it soon. I came home and did some organizing and storage of things. I relaxed this evening and watched the craziness of American Idol auditions.

Share this:

- Share