

It was a good day at school. I worked on attendance. I then headed to the district office for a Data Managers meeting. It was a good meeting with some good conversations with co-workers beforehand. I got back to school and ate lunch. Then I worked with the vice principle on an issue and then worked on others odds and ends the rest of the day. Homegroup was smaller tonight with the Ashley's and Briggs not being their. But it was a sweet time.
