

Today was a teacher work day at work. I went in at my normal time and got there around 7. I was so grateful to the Lord, because most of the ice and slick roads happened after I got to work. It was a quiet day around the building. I helped several teachers with grade entry question. I did some supply restocking and helped with a job interview. I headed back into town early to get my hair cut. It was funny the Cubino's and I were following each other on 54. After I got my hair cut, I headed over to Arts Alive to see if they had picked a date to reschedule the Winter Concert. It is Sat. Feb. 23 7pm at Antioch Community Church. I talked with Karise and several other people. I then came home and relaxed.
