

It has been a nice Sunday. I woke up this morning and had some nice quiet time over breakfast. I headed into church and got everything set up. We had a power spike which kicked off a breaker and the projector & computer monitors. Dick and I got it up and running. Worship was good. Micah Fox brought the word today about keeping God first and rightly dividing the Word of Truth. It was also great to hear him announce his engagement to Kari.

I relaxed this afternoon and watched a little Food Network. Then I talked to Mom and Dad. Then left a message for a friend. I watched Extreme Makeover Home Edition tonight and took it easy.

Share this:

- Share