

It was a delayed opening day at work (for kids). Those days seem to be so much more busy and the kids are wild. Today we had several discipline situation and we had the Superintendent visiting. It made for a busy day for me.

This evening I spent the evening watching Lost. It was the season 4 premier. It was so great to have a new episode and to have it be a very good one. It leaves you wanting more. It just wish we were going to get more than 8 episodes. If only the writers strike was over! Oh well. for more info check out <http://www.gspn.tv/forum> for more discussion.

Share this:

- Share