

Well it was a busy day. I got to work and did a few odds and ends. Then I headed over to the classroom for our staff prayer time. It is always a good way to start the day. I did a little attendance. I then headed over to Carrboro High for a data managers meeting. But due some technical issues we only met for an hour. I came back and did attendance. We had a faculty meeting this afternoon. I headed home afterwards. The weather change caused my sinuses to act up. I just relaxed at home tonight. Most of my home group from church was skiing in Boone for Homeschool days.
