

It was a good day. I spent the morning in Greensboro for the last part of the Symposium. Then I headed to Chapel Hill. I got to work and it was a very productive day. I was able to catch up on almost everything. I then headed over to the district office of a classified council meeting. It was our first. We went over several issues to decide what to focus future meetings on. It was very productive and it think it would be a good way to bring about changes. We didn't have home group tonight because several people were sick with the flu. So I relaxed at home and watched American Idol. Also if you like "The Princess Bride" check this shirt out <http://www.thinkgeek.com/tshirts/generic/9f70/>
