

It was a quiet day at work, which is a very good thing. I talked via email to my district supervisors about technology, but didn't hear what I wanted to hear but that's OK. We had our school's Safe Schools Committee meeting today. It went well and we had some good discussions. It was SO nice to be back at homegroup tonight. Due sickness and other events it has been a while. It was a good time of discussion we are going through the book listed above. It is challenging and encouraging. We had a sweet time of prayer after the discussion.

Share this:

- Share