

We I had high hopes of sleeping in today. But I forgot, I live in downtown. Along about 7:30 (which did let me sleep in some), I was awakened to the sounds of the professional yard crew mowing and weedeating across the street. Oh well. I got up and had breakfast and a good quiet time. I did some reading and got ready. I got a haircut this morning. I went and browsed around Family Christian and several stores at Alamance Crossing. I grabbed a wrap and some fruit from chick-fil-a and then stopped in Office Depot. I picked up a Motorola Bluetooth headset that had a $35 mail in rebate. So it will cost me $4. I got a call from work about a teaching needing a sub for next week so I set that up. Then I read the chapter we were discussing tonight in homegroup. Homegroup was sweet and challenging tonight. It was nice to be able to stick around a little longer and talk.
