

Wow today was busy. I worked on attendance, payroll, and other odds and ends. I'm thankful that the Principal is making some progress with the district in getting some help for the work. It is a busy time for everyone at school and the extra hands would be great. I made a deposit into savings for my MacBook. In a month or so I should be half way there, unless things pop up. I stopped by the store and go some groceries. I relaxed at home and flipped back and forth between Star Wars IV and the Nationals game. Not a good game though ☐ .

Share this:

- Share