

It was a nice day to relax. I got up and had breakfast. I spend some time in the Word and worshiping with some songs on my iTunes. I read the news and some blogs. I did the dishes and then ran out to grab a few things. This afternoon, I flipped between the disappointing Nationals game and the "Deadliest Catch" marathon on Discovery. Tonight was our (twice a month) community Bible study. It was a good evening. The Kemp's came and shared with us and we had a good time. Now I'm headed to the shower and then to bed. It will be a full day tomorrow with church, a "Tool Time" shower for Micah and more.
