

It was a steady day at work and productive. I didn't get as much accomplished as I wanted but a good day none the less. Plus we have someone coming in part time to do the money half of Linda's job. That is a huge praise! This afternoon one of our teachers (who is off this year after having a little girl) stopped in with both of her girls. We all had fun talking with them. I came home tonight and had a nice dinner of soup and a grilled cheese. I relaxed tonight. My sinuses & allergies will be happy when the pollen count goes down and the weather evens out some. But I must said the Lord's creation is beautiful. There are a lot of purple flowers & trees blooming on the roads that I travel. It reminds me that the Christ is risen and brings new life. Live in the family of God (purple the royal color).

Share this:

- Share