

Wow we had some major changed in temperature today. 30's this morning to 70's this afternoon. My sinuses felt it. I need to see if the guys can fix the AC in my 4Runner soon. Well it was a good day at work. It was a delayed opening for kids. I was able to get a lot done this morning before they got there. We also had a meeting about revising our discipline write-up forms and we made good progress. I loved the weather this afternoon (even with the sinus stuff). I stopped in to see a friend this afternoon. We were supposed to have supper but that didn't work out today. But it was good to catch up and hang out for a little. I came home and fixed soup & and a sandwich for supper. It was a quiet evening at home. I needed to do laundry but the machines were all taken. So it will have to wait until Saturday afternoon.

Share this:

- Share