

It was the last day of EOG's for students. After it was over, things went crazy. We had kids getting written up and meeting with the principals. Kids set home and more. Plus it was the payroll cut off and I was working like crazy to get it done. I left and spent the ride back to Burlington just laying the work day down at his feet. I got into town and headed over to the catering job. It was an easy 3 hour job and very fun to work. I then came home and packed up. I'm headed to the mountains tomorrow morning. I'm spending the weekend with my Aunt & Uncle (Donna & Harley) and their church. They even asked me to give the short message for the Sunday service. I love this weekend. It is a family tradition since I was little. It is also a nicely placed break before the end of year activities at school and the 2 production weeks at Arts Alive.
