

Plane to Miami

We awoke early Sunday morning and packed up. We went to the airport and began the long process of bag searches, checking in, and taxes. After we had all gotten through the process, we ate our bag breakfast and then said farewell to Karen & Jorge. We went through security and waited. We all had heavy hearts. We were already missing Bocachica, the people of the community and the Proyecto Libertad staff. God is so good! We made plans for next year's trip and discussed what the Lord had been teaching us. We went through the second security check point and on to the plane. (I must say Avianca Airlines is a GREAT carrier. They have great service, nice planes and great staff.)

We made it to Miami and through customs. We got checked in with American. We then ate a meal and headed for the gate. We got home to Raleigh and were greeted by an enthusiastic group of friends and family. It was a great trip!

I have been blessed to be able to share about it with many at work and church. I feel like the Lord wants me to go back next year and I will be saving to pay my way.
